

For God's sake practically all of the media is already owned by six corporate conglomerates that heavily censor content through omission and distortion of information. Isn't that enough profit and power for all the parties that benefit from this. Can't ordinary citizens have at least one remaining shot at having a diverse and objective media that facilitates the democratic process? Don't do this foolish, destructive thing. Even in a plutocracy like ours, that's going too far.
